35:41

U.S.

ISSN 0041-7904

EASTERN MICHIGAN UNIVERSITY LIBRARY

OCT 28 1976

EDUCATION & PSYCHOLOGY

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS INFORMATION BULLETIN

Vol. 35, No. 41 October 8, 1976

NANNIE HELEN BURROUGHS PAPERS PRESENTED TO LIBRARY OF CONGRESS

Nannie Helen Burroughs was a dreamer whose dreams came true. The story of her dreams, and her faith, vision, and perseverance which made the dreams reality, lies within the correspondence, photographs, and other memorabilia which form the contents of her extensive and richly varied papers, which were presented to the Library of Congress on September 22.

Nannie, as she was affectionately called, was a native of Orange, Va., and the only child of parents who were born in slavery. In 1883, when she was five, she was brought to the District of Columbia by her mother in order to continue her education in the public schools. In high school, she majored in business and domestic science and graduated with honors. She was disappointed when she was not appointed to a domestic science teaching position in the District schools. She said, "It broke me up at first. I had my life all planned out, to settle down in Washington with my mother, do that pleasant work, draw a good salary and be comfortable the rest of my life [but] an idea struck out of the suffering of that disappointment that I would some day have a school here in Washington that school politics had nothing to do with, and that would give all sorts of girls a fair chance, without political pull, to help them overcome whatever handicaps they might have. It came to me

(Continued on p. 626)

The J. Franklin Jameson Lecture in American History, sponsored by the Library of Congress and the American Historical Association, will take place at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, October 19, in the Coolidge Auditorium of the Library. The lecturer will be C. Vann Woodward, Sterling professor of history at Yale University. His topic is "The Aging of America." The public is invited. There will be no admission charge.

NEW PROCEDURES REDUCE "NOT ON SHELF" REPORTS

Readers at the Library of Congress are receiving better service as a result of the joint efforts of the Stack and Reader Division and the Loan Division.

Beginning August 23, all call slips initially marked "not on shelf"—an indication that the book is not on the shelf location indicated by its call number—are being checked against the Central Charge File in the Loan Division. This file contains a record of books charged to borrowers. As a result of this new procedure, approximately one-third of previously unlocated items are found. Formerly, such checks were made only on special request from readers. A detailed analysis was made of the NOS items not found in the Central Charge File for the week of August 23-27. A check of the shelves by area supervisors located an additional 2.5 percent (0.7 percent of the number

CONTENTS

Festivities Mark Plaza-Scaping 624, 626
Hamilton Lecture Published 624
Library of Congress Publications 630
A Message from the CFC Vice Chairman 629
Nannie Helen Burroughs Papers Presented to the Library of Congress . . 623, 626-627
New Folklore Guide Published 627-628
New Procedures Reduce "Not on Shelf" Reports 623-624
NHPRC Meets 626
Pianist Rudolf Firkusny Joins Juilliard in Concert 626
Register Receives Award 628
Staff News 628-630
Appendix—Women in Revolutionary America: A Selected List of References 631-634

originally requested) which apparently had been missed on the initial search on the shelf. Further checks one and two weeks later on the shelves and the Central Charge File located an additional 37 percent of the original NOS items. These were probably in use at the time of the original request, but not charged out.

A sample of the items unaccounted for in the above searches revealed a variety of causes. These ranged from errors by readers in copying call numbers, errors in catalog records, misshelving, and requests for unbound issues actually available elsewhere.

William Sartain, acting chief of the Stack and Reader Division said, "We wanted to determine why books were not available, find out how we could make them available, and determine what was causing delays in service. Under the new system, the reader will receive books we find on the shelf just as fast as he did formerly. In many cases, he will receive information on how to find others, rather than simply a NOS report."

Mr. Sartain and Jack McDonald, chief of the Loan Division, said that NOS reports for books that are not located may come back more slowly than in the past until the Central Charge File is automated, anticipated in 1977.

HAMILTON LECTURE PUBLISHED

The Library of Congress has issued Illusion and Reality, a lecture delivered by Virginia Hamilton at the Library of Congress on November 17, 1975, in observance of National Children's Book Week. The Library has published the lecture, sponsored by the Gertrude Clarke Whittall Poetry and Literature Fund, in order to bring Virginia Hamilton's contribution to literary criticism to a wider audience.

Virginia Hamilton, winner of the John Newbery Medal for the most distinguished contribution to literature for children published in the United States in 1975, discusses in Illusion and Reality her writing and the "framework of myths, delusions, dreams and realities" through which she and other writers, and black writers in particular, work. "I try through fiction to break down the symbols and free the reality," she states.... "For myself, I deliberately attempt a kind of literary radicalism in the hope of removing traditional prose restrictions and creating new ways to approach literary forms from a perspective other than that of the majority."

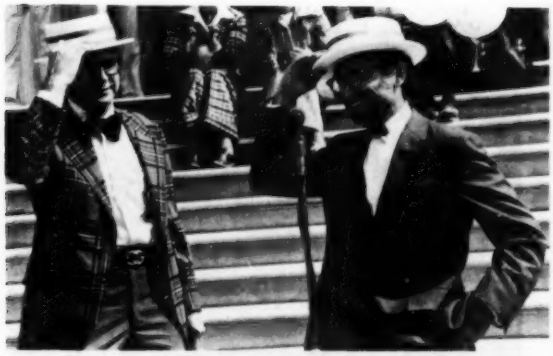
The monograph is available from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402 at 50 cents a copy (Stock No. 030-001-00072-9); there is a minimum charge of $1 for each mail order. Copies will also be obtainable in person from the Library's Information Counter at 50 cents each.

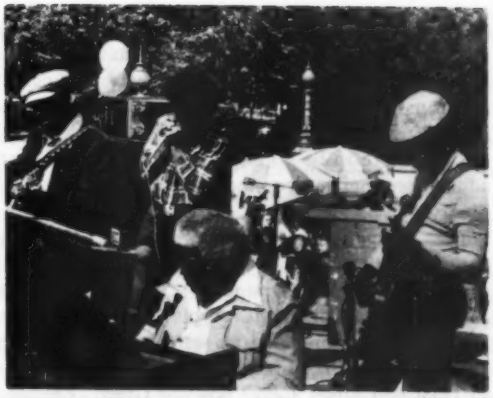
FESTIVITIES MARK PLAZA-SCAPING

Balloons, popcorn, and cotton candy marked the first plaza celebration at the Library of Congress. On Thursday, September 23, members of the staff joined readers and visitors in celebration of the new look of the Neptune Plaza, the terraces leading up to the great bronze doors of the Library of Congress Building. Below the plaza is the Court of Neptune fountain, which was restored earlier this year [see the LC Information Bulletin for June 11, pp. 329-330].

Librarian Daniel J. Boorstin discovered upon taking office last November that the plaza above the fountain afforded a wonderful view. Standing on those flagstones of red Missouri granite, he remarked that one can turn completely around without seeing one ugly prospect. So he urged Architect of the Capitol George White to help him furnish the Neptune Plaza, adding another welcoming aspect to the staid old library.

(Continued on p. 626)





The Librarian and Mr. White

Norman Beckman, Edmond L. Applebaum, and Kevin Murphy

The completion of the plaza-scaping—tables bedecked with colorful umbrellas, large redwood planters containing crape myrtles, and pots of colorful mums—was hailed with an old-fashioned program, including music provided by veteran blues singer and pianist Wilbert "Big Chief" Ellis of Birmingham, Ala., guitarist and singer John "Bowling Green" Cephas of Woodford, Va., and Phil Wiggins on harmonica and James Bellman on electric bass.

PIANIST RUDOLF FIRKUSNY TO JOIN JUILLIARD IN CONCERT

Pianist Rudolf Firkusny and the Juilliard String Quartet will present two concerts of chamber music on Thursday and Friday evenings, October 14 and 15. The concerts are sponsored by the Gertrude Clarke Whittall Foundation.

Mr. Firkusny, a pianist of international fame, is renowned for performances and recordings of the solo piano repertoire as well as chamber music. In particular, Mr. Firkusny has brought many unfamiliar Czech compositions to the attention of American audiences.

The program for these concerts will include Quartet in E flat major, K. 428, by Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart, Sonata in E flat major for viola and piano, Op. 120, No. 2, by Johannes Brahms, and Piano Quartet in D major, Op. 23, by Antonín Dvořak. Juilliard Quartet members are Robert Mann and Earl Carlyss, violins; Samuel Rhodes, viola; and Joel Krosnick, violoncello.

The concerts will begin promptly at 8:30 p.m. in the Coolidge Auditorium of the Library. Tickets for the concerts will be distributed by Patrick Hayes, 1300 G St., N.W., beginning at 8:30 a.m. on Monday, October 11. A service charge of 25 cents is placed on each ticket, and only two tickets are distributed to an individual. Telephone reservations may be made on Monday morning by calling 393-4463. Mail orders are not accepted.

The concert on Friday evening will be broadcast live and in its entirety by radio station WETA-FM and made available to stations in other cities through the Library's Katie and Walter Louchheim Fund.

NHPRC MEETS

The National Historical Publications and Records Commission met on September 13 in its new offices at 711 14th St., N.W., Room 1111, with the Library of Congress's representative, Elizabeth Hamer Kegan, Assistant Librarian of Congress for American and Library Studies, in attendance. A number of letterpress, microfilm, and other proposed projects were considered. The General Services Administration budget for fiscal 1977 includes $3 million as grant funds for the commission and $363,000 for NHPRC's administration.

Fred Shelley, NHPRC deputy director and a former Library of Congress staff member, was welcomed back after a long illness. It was announced that the Documentary Editing Institute would be held at the University of South Carolina in 1977, as it was this year. Information about attendance may be obtained from the commission's office.

NANNIE HELEN BURROUGHS PAPERS PRESENTED TO LIBRARY OF CONGRESS

(Continued from p. 623)

like a flash of light, and I knew I was to do that thing when the time came." She devoted the rest of her life to providing educational and employment opportunities for Afro-American women and girls.

In 1909, she founded the National Training School for Women and Girls, Inc. in Washington, D.C., on a six-acre farm on Benning Road purchased for $6,000. Through the now Progressive National Baptist Convention, for which she was for many years chairman of the Women's Auxiliary, Dr. Burroughs raised more than $350,000 to purchase the present 10-acre site of the Nannie Helen Burroughs School at 50th and Grant Sts., N.E. She gradually upgraded the school into a junior college as more vocational and professional positions became available to black women.

The school is now co-educational, with a nursery and K-6 grades under a program instituted in 1961 by Dr. Burroughs' chosen successor, Rebekah Calloway. Most of the related activities are now conducted in the million-dollar administration-classroom building completed in 1972.

Councilwoman Hardy and Dr. Downey pose before the portrait of Nannie Helen Burroughs.

Dr. Burroughs also began at the school the publication of 14 periodicals, largely Baptist, of which the non-denominational The Worker currently has a quarterly circulation of 86,000 in the United States and four foreign countries. In addition to providing a publications center for the Progressive National Baptist Convention, the campus regularly hosts religious meetings.

Education and religion were two facets of this extraordinary woman's life. She was also very active in civil rights and women's rights endeavors. She was a member of the Frederick Douglass Historical and Memorial Association and served as its historian for several years.

She was a moving orator and persuasive writer and was often in touch with many outstanding figures of her time. Mary McLeod Bethune, George Washington Carver, Mary Church Terrell, Mordecai W. Johnson, Charlotte E. Hopkins, Eleanor Roosevelt, and Charlotte Hawkins Brown are among correspondents represented in the papers presented to the Library.

Nannie Helen Burroughs died May 20, 1961. Her work continues. The small school she founded was renamed in 1964 The Nannie Helen Burroughs School, Inc. by the Board of Trustees as a memorial tribute. May 10, 1976 was proclaimed as Nannie H. Burroughs Day by the Mayor of the District of Columbia, Walter E. Washington. On May 10, 1976, the name of Deane Ave. and Grant St. (from Minnesota Ave. to Eastern Ave.) was changed to Nannie Helen Burroughs Ave., N.E. A historical marker has been erected at this site in her memory.

The acquisition of the Nannie Helen Burroughs papers by the Library will provide scholars and laymen with an outstanding opportunity to explore and document the life and work of a remarkable black American woman. After the papers are arranged, they will be available for use by qualified researchers. Inquiries about the papers should be directed to the Library's Manuscript Division.

Aurelia M. Downey, third president of The Nannie Helen Burroughs School, Inc., presented the papers to Librarian of Congress Daniel J. Boorstin in ceremonies on Wednesday morning, September 22, in the Whittall Pavilion.

In addition to Dr. Downey and other close friends and associates, Robert Taylor representing the Mayor's office, District of Columbia Council members Willie J. Hardy and Jerry A. Moore, and Library of Congress Consultant in Poetry Robert Hayden were present.

The original site of The Nannie Helen Burroughs School as shown in an undated photograph from the Burroughs papers.

NEW FOLKLORE GUIDE PUBLISHED

"[Here are] the gleanings, if not of 'a thousand and one nights,' at least of many scores of evenings spent sitting in a circle after dark in the village street or, if in the rains, in some open pato (three-walled room) with the four sides of the gyase kesie (big courtyard) of the compound thronged with villagers gathered under the dripping eaves to hear and relate these tales." Thus, Robert S. Rattray introduces his collection of 75 Akan-Ashanti folk tales, one of the 190 items listed in Folklore: From Africa to the United States, a new publication of the Children's Book Section of the Library of Congress.

The bibliography was undertaken to reveal African sources of many familiar tales found in this country and the West Indies and to point out the richness of other oral narratives not well known here. It is hoped, too, that the work will reveal something of the art of the narratives, their fashioning, presentation, and role in the lives of the people. The bibliography, therefore, aims to serve those who work with today's children, their teachers, and librarians, folklore retellers, and storytellers.

Compiled by Margaret N. Coughlan of the Children's Book Section, with a foreword by section head Virginia Haviland, the 161-page bibliography contains a rich variety of folk narrative from Africa south of the Sahara, the West Indies, and the continental United States, and lists studies and collections of animal stories, fables, trickster tales, myths, and Märchen, recorded by philologists, missionaries, traders, civil servants, teachers, and school children primarily in the English language. Arranged by major geographical land areas–West, Southern, Central, and East Africa, the West Indies, and the United States–these studies and collections of narratives have been selected for their cultural notes and variety of texts.

The bibliography is a companion to the Children's Book Section's earlier Folklore of the North American Indians, compiled by Judith C. Ullom, a former staff member in the section.

Hardbound with striking black cover designs from traditional motifs, Folklore: From Africa to the United States may be purchased from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402, for $4.50 a copy (Stock No. 030-001-0066-4); it will also be available in person only at the Library's Information Counter.

REGISTER RECEIVES AWARD

Register of Copyrights Barbara A. Ringer received the Library's highest award at a luncheon in the Whittall Pavilion on Tuesday, September 28. The Distinguished Service Award was presented to her in recognition of her significant contribution to the long quest for modern copyright legislation for the United States. The bill for the general revision of the copyright law was passed by the House and the Senate during the week of September 27 and has gone to the President for his signature.

Barbara Ringer and The Librarian

The award citation commended the Register for her "high technical competence and untiring efforts . . . [and her] brilliant ability to grasp, communicate, and reconcile conflicting viewpoints and strongly held opinions in working with both houses of Congress." It concludes by recognizing that her "work will serve generations of copyright users and will benefit all those in the nation and the world who share the dividends of progress in literature, science, and the useful arts."

Barbara Ringer, Register of Copyrights since 1973, has served the Copyright Office since 1949. She was Assistant Register from 1966 until 1972 when she transferred to UNESCO as director of the Copyright Division in the Office of International Standards and Legal Affairs in Paris. She holds bachelor's and master's degrees from George Washington University and received her law degree from Columbia University.

STAFF NEWS

RETIREMENT

Catherine I. Bahn, principal recommending officer, Science and Technology Division, retired on August 31 after more than 30 years of Federal service.

A member of the Library of Congress staff since 1957, when she joined the Geography and Map

Division as head, Acquisitions Section, Mrs. Bahn moved to the Science and Technology Division in 1966. She came to the Library of Congress from the Aeronautical Chart and Information Center in Washington, D.C. where she was chief of the Chart Library Section. She holds a master's degree in geography from Columbia University and has taught in many schools, including the United States Department of Agriculture Graduate School, which in 1973 awarded her a Certificate of Appreciation for 20 years of "significant and sustained service." A frequent contributor to the Information Bulletin, she has published widely in various philatelic, geography, and library journals and for some years edited the Arlington Historical Magazine. Mrs. Bahn has been particularly active in the Special Libraries Association (SLA), holding several offices, notably chairman of both the Science and Technology Group and the Geograpy and Map Group. In 1973, she was given the Honors Award for Outstanding Achievement by SLA's Geography and Map Division. Also active in civic affairs, she was appointed in 1970 by the Arlington County Board to membership on the Committee for Recommendations on the Potomac River Basin. [A fuller account of Mrs. Bahn's career appeared in the LC Information Bulletin of December 26, 1975.]

At a luncheon marking her retirement, attended by department directors, division chiefs, and other past and present colleagues, Mrs. Bahn was presented a framed satellite photo of the Washington area. A tireless world traveler, her immediate plans after retirement include trips to Europe and the upper Amazon.

AWARD

Tin Shu Chin, senior collection specialist in the Reader Service Section of the Stack and Reader Division, received a 25-year Federal Service Award pin on September 2.

Mr. Chin joined the staff of the Library of Congress as a deck attendant in the Stack and Reader Division in August 1953. In 1958, he received a Meritorious Service Award for an improved method of shelving, and he was named library assistant (searcher) in 1959. He has been a senior collection specialist since 1968.

A MESSAGE FROM THE CFC VICE CHAIRMAN

The 1977 Combined Federal Campaign has been underway for a little more than two weeks and the Library's progress is as follows:

	Percentage of Employees	Percent of Quota
Office of the Librarian	20	44
Administrative Department	10	18
Congressional Research Service	10	25
Copyright Office	4	21
Law Library	23	46
Processing Department	10	48
Reader Services Department	10	32
Research Department	9	40
Library of Congress Total	10	34

As the figures show, although the Library is making good progress towards meeting its quota, employee participation is very low. Last year approximately 40 percent of the staff managed to exceed the Library's quota, but the participation figure was one of the lowest in the Federal Government. It is not important how much a person contributes but rather that each employee makes some contribution. Everyone will then have that feeling that is best expressed by this year's campaign theme—"Sharing Means a Whole Lot of Happiness."

James R. Trew

PERSONNEL CHANGES

Appointments: Sharon Burroughs, deck attendant, GS-3, S&R, OP 2-600; Elizabeth Donini, cataloger, GS-7, DBPH, 2128; Marianne Filice, bill digester and reference assistant, GS-7, CRS A, 2109; Barbara Griffis, assistant catalog editor, GT-11, Proc, 2092; Jeffrey Harper, reading room assistant, GS-2, S&R, OP 5-600; Garry Huggens, entry editor, GS-9, Ser Rec, 1994; Gloria Thompson, clerk-typist, GS-4, Cop Reg, 2016; Erma Williams, microphotographer trainee, GT-3, Photodup, OP 5-100; Romonde Winters, library aid, GS-3, E&G, 2162; Gregory Wood, mail clerk, GS-3, Cop Serv, OP 10-200; Richard Yarnall, library aid, GS-3, E&G, 2162.

Temporary Appointments: Thomas Brooking, library aid, GS-1, S&R, NP; Dorman Brumbelow, reference clerk, GS-3, CRS Ed, NP; Teresa Hileman, library aid, GS-1, Pers Place, NP; Susan Morris, reference clerk, GS-3, CRS Ed, NP; Bryan Short, library aid, GS-1, Cat Mgmt, NP.

Reappointments: Paul Reynolds, library technician, GS-4, PMO, 2010; Loretta Tatum, warehouseman, WG-4, DBPH, 2182.

Promotions: Susie Barfield, to senior copyright examiner, GS-12, Cop Exam, 2167; Jeffrey Burton, to analyst in labor economics, GS-9, CRS E, 2205; David Paris, to research and information support paraprofessional, GS-5, CRS C, 2085.

Transfers: James Childress, Inf, to preliminary cataloger, GS-6, Desc Cat, 2135; Thomas Kane, CRS SPR, to analyst in environmental policy, GS-13, CRS ENR, NP; Gloria Stovall, Bind, to payroll clerk, GS-4, FMO, 1985; Pamela Switzer, Desc Cat, to payroll clerk, GS-4, FMO, 1985; Ricardo Veasey, CRS D, to deck attendant, GS-3, S&R, OP 4-600.

Resignations: Sharon Carter, GR&B; Gloria Cooper, CRS D; Edith Goldberg, MARC Dev; Lea Pfluger, Mus; Reginald Tate, P&S.

STAFF ACTIVITIES

Librarian Daniel J. Boorstin delivered the keynote address on September 27 at an international conference on The United States in the World at the Smithsonian Institution. Mr. Boorstin spoke on "The Republic of Technology."

John Y. Cole, chairman of the Librarian's Task Force on Goals, Organization, and Planning, is the author of a biographical article on Lucile M. Morsch in the Encyclopedia of Library and Information Science, published by Marcel Dekker, Inc. Miss Morsch, a nationally recognized cataloging expert, was the first chief of the Descriptive Cataloging Division (1940-51) and served as deputy chief assistant librarian from 1953 to 1962.

Kay Guiles of the MARC Development Office and Vivian Schrader of the Audiovisual Section, Descriptive Cataloging Division, participated in a meeting on August 23-25 held by the Association for Educational Communications and Technology and the National Commission on Libraries and Information Science (NCLIS) at AECT headquarters in Washington, D.C. This was the first meeting of an advisory panel of participants from public and private sectors of the nonprint field which met to discuss an NCLIS-funded project to develop goals, objectives, and functional specifications for a national system for the bibliographic control of nonprint media using automated techniques.

Tao-tai Hsia, chief, Far Eastern Law Division, participated in the United States-China Trade Symposium held September 24-25 in Charlottesville, Va. The symposium was sponsored by the University of Virginia's Committee on Asian Studies in cooperation with the Colgate Darden School of Business Administration and the East Asian Language and Area Center. Mr. Hsia served as a discussant, along with John J. Taylor of the National Security Council, on a panel which considered technical and political issues.

Leo A. Orleans, China research specialist for the Research Department, during the week of September 13 escorted the Environmental Sciences Study Group from the People's Republic of China through Rutgers University and various power plants, refineries, farms, steel mills, and research laboratories in the vicinity of the Delaware River estuary. The group is on a month's visit to the United States to observe how industrial and domestic wastes are treated in this country and to learn about current pollution research. The group is one of six Chinese scientific groups which will be visiting the United States this year as part of the exchange program sponsored by the Committee for Scholarly Communication with the People's Republic of China of the National Academy of Sciences and China's Scientific and Technical Association.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The United States Botanic Garden will offer a one hour short course beginning October 12 on Orchids As Houseplants. The same class will be repeated three times each day at 10 a.m., 12 noon, and 2 p.m. through Sunday, October 17. Robert M. Pennington of the U.S. Botanic Garden Staff will be the instructor. There is no charge and enrollment is not necessary.

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS PUBLICATIONS

Accessions List: India. ISSN 0041-7734. Vol. 15, No. 10. October 1976. Continuing subscriptions free to libraries upon request to the Field Director, Library of Congress Office, American Embassy, New Delhi, India.

Braille Book Review. ISSN 0006-873X. Vol. 45, No. 5. September-October 1976. Free upon request from the Division for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, Library of Congress, Washington, D.C. 20542.

Folklore from Africa to the United States. ISBN 0-8444-0175-7. 1976. (x, 161 p.) An annotated bibliography of African tales in English, and a few in French, for both adults and children. Available for $4.50 from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402 (Stock No. 030-001-00066-4).

APPENDIX

WOMEN IN REVOLUTIONARY AMERICA

A Selected List of References

Compiled by Marguerite D. Bloxom
Bibliography Section
General Reference and Bibliography Division

Beard, Mary R., ed. America through women's eyes. New York, Macmillan Co., 1933. 558 p. E161.B42
Bibliography: p. 549-552.
Chapter 2, "Making the Revolution" (p. 54-87), includes selections from the writings of Mercy Otis Warren, Abigail Adams, and Deborah Champion.

Benson, Mary S. Women in eighteenth-century America; a study of opinion and social usage. New York, Columbia University Press, 1935. 343 p. (Studies in history, economics, and public law, no. 405) H31.C7, no. 405 Issued also as thesis (Ph. D.)–Columbia University.
"Bibliographical essay": p. 317-333.

Blumenthal, Walter H. Women camp followers of the American Revolution. Philadelphia, G. S. MacManus Co., 1952. 104 p. E276.B55
Bibliography: p. [97]-104.

Booth, Sally S. The women of '76. New York, Hastings House [1973] 329 p. plates, ports. E276.B66
Bibliography: p. 309-322.

Brownlee, W. Elliot, and Mary M. Brownlee. Women in the American economy; a documentary history, 1675 to 1929. New Haven, Yale University Press, 1976. 350 p. (A Yale paperbound, Y-289) HD6095.B74 1976
Includes bibliographic references.
"Women in preindustrial society": p. 41-90.

Bruce, Kathleen. Massachusetts women of the Revolution, 1761-1789. In Hart, Albert B., ed. Commonwealth history of Massachusetts. v. 3. Commonwealth of Massachusetts, 1775-1820. New York, States History Co., 1929. p. 306-340. ports. F64.H32, v. 3
Bibliography: p. 337-340.

Cometti, Elizabeth. Women in the American Revolution. New England quarterly, v. 20, Sept. 1947: 329-346. F1.N62, v. 20

Dexter, Elisabeth W. A. Colonial women of affairs; women in business and the professions in America before 1776. 2d ed., rev. Boston, Houghton Mifflin Co., 1931. xxi, 223 p. facsims., plates, ports. E195.D522
"References": p. [195]-[202]

Donovan, Frank R. The women in their lives; the distaff side of the Founding Fathers. New York, Dodd, Mead [1966] 339 p. ports. E302.5.D6
Contents: The mothers of the Founding Fathers.–Several women and Benjamin Franklin.–The unlucky loves of George Washington.–The one woman for John Adams.–The tragic loves of Thomas Jefferson.–Two women and Alexander Hamilton.–The late love of James Madison.–Epilogue.

Downey, Fairfax D. The girls behind the guns. American heritage, v. 8, Dec. 1956: 46-48. illus. (part col.) E171.A43, v. 8
The exploits of cannoneers Margaret Corbin and Mary Ludwig Hayes (known as Molly Pitcher) with mention of their subsequent careers and their treatment by the U.S. Government.

Drinker, Sophie H. Votes for women in 18th-century New Jersey. In New Jersey Historical Society. Proceedings, v. 80, Jan. 1962: 31-45. F131.N58, v. 80

Earnest, Ernest P. The American Eve in fact and fiction, 1775-1914. Urbana, University of Illinois Press [1974] 280 p. HQ1410.E17
Includes bibliographic references.
"The Revolutionary women": p. [10]-28.

Ellet, Elizabeth F. L. The women of the American Revolution. New York, Baker and Scribner, 1848-50. 3 v. ports. E206.E44

Individual sketches based on documents and family records. Many later writers depended heavily on Ellet's work.

Evans, Elizabeth. Weathering the storm; women of the American Revolution. New York, C. Scribner's Sons [1975] 372 p. facsims., plates, ports. E276.E93

Bibliography: p. 361-367.

Accounts, primarily in their own words, of the lives of 11 women: Jemima Condict Harrison, Martha I'ans Walker, Margaret Hill Morris, Sarah Wister, Elizabeth Sandwith Drinker, Grace Growdon Galloway, Mary Gould Almy, Jane Young Ferguson, Anna Rawle Clifford, Deborah Sampson Gannett, and Elizabeth Foote Washington.

Fennelly, Catherine. Connecticut women in the Revolutionary era. Chester, Conn., Pequot Press, 1975. 60 p. plates, ports. (Connecticut bicentennial series, 15) HQ1438.C8F45

Touches many aspects of domestic life and the effects of the war.

Fisher, Marguerite J. Eighteenth-century theorists of women's liberation. In "Remember the ladies"; new perspectives on women in American history. Essays in honor of Nelson Manfred Blake. Edited by Carol V. R. George. Syracuse, N.Y., Syracuse University Press, 1975. p. 39-47. HQ1410.R45

Includes bibliographic footnotes.

Green, Harry C., and Mary W. Green. The pioneer mothers of America; a record of the more notable women of the early days of the country, and particularly of the colonial and Revolutionary periods. New York, G. P. Putnam's Sons [©1912] 3 v. map., plates, ports. E176.G79

Vols. 2-3 provide names and accounts of more than 150 women of the Revolutionary era.

Huddleston, Eugene L. Feminist verse satire in America: a checklist, 1700-1800. Bulletin of bibliography and magazine notes, v. 32, July/Sept. 1975: 115-121, 132. Z1007.B94, v. 32

To construct this research tool Huddleston collected entries from poetry columns of 18th-century American periodicals, most dated after 1775. Many of the poems listed are anonymous and/or of English origin. He notes that some verses contain predictable attacks and criticism, but others provide new insights into women's problems in that era.

Hutson, James H. Women in the era of the American Revolution; the historian as suffragist. In U.S. Library of Congress. Quarterly journal, v. 32, Oct. 1975: 290-303. illus. Z881.U49A3, v. 32

Contends that the History of Woman Suffrage edited by Elizabeth Cady Stanton and others still influences modern authors. "Today's writers on women in the Revolutionary era are suffragists, purveying as history the propaganda of another age."

Kelley, Joseph J., and Sol Feinstone. Courage & candlelight; the feminine spirit of '76. [Harrisburg, Pa.] Stackpole Books [1974] 240 p. port. HQ1418.K45

"Sources and resources": p. 232-236.

Contents: A beginning word.—A partnership of minds: Abigail and John Adams.—Best of wives—best of women: Elizabeth Schuyler Hamilton.—My dear child: the unsung Deborah Franklin.—The traitor's lady: Peggy Shippen Arnold.—Spinners of myth and legend: Annis Stockton and the muses.—Patrician and slave: the women in Thomas Jefferson's life.

Kerber, Linda K. The Republican mother: women and the Enlightenment—an American perspective. American quarterly, v. 28, summer 1976: 187-205. AP2.A3985, v. 28

The French philosophes had little place for women in politics. However, in post-Revolutionary America women could play a civic role, albeit limited, by influencing their families and children.

Ketcham, Ralph L. The Puritan ethic in the Revolutionary era: Abigail Adams and Thomas Jefferson. In "Remember the ladies"; new perspectives on women in American history. Essays in honor of Nelson Manfred Blake. Edited by Carol V. R. George. Syracuse, N.Y., Syracuse University Press, 1975. p. 49-65. HQ1410.R45

Includes bibliographic footnotes.

Leonard, Eugenie A., and others. The American woman in colonial and Revolutionary times, 1565-1800; a syllabus with bibliography. Philadelphia, University of Pennsylvania Press [1962] 169 p. Z7964.U49L4

Bibliography: p. 126-169.

Chronological and topical outline covering economic, social, and intellectual aspects of women's lives with appropriate references for each section which are keyed to a bibliography of over a thousand entries. A list of "104 Outstanding Colonial Women" with sources is included.

Leonard, Eugenie A. The dear-bought heritage. Foreword by Margaret Chase Smith. Philadelphia, University of Pennsylvania Press [1965] 658 p. facsims., plates, ports. E162.L4 1965
Bibliography: p. 615-640.
Describes women's activities during the entire colonial period.

Lerner, Gerda. The woman in American history. Menlo Park, Calif., Addison-Wesley Pub. Co. [1971] 207 p. illus., ports. (Specialized studies in American history series) HQ1410.L38
Bibliography: p. 191-200.
"The colonial period and the Revolution": p. 9-26.

Lumpkin, William L. The role of women in 18th century Virginia Baptist life. Baptist history and heritage, v. 8, July 1973: 158-167. BX6207.A407, v. 8
In many communities women composed a majority of the congregation and took an active part in church affairs.

Lyman, Susan E. Three New York women of the Revolution. In New York Historical Society. Quarterly bulletin, v. 29, Apr. 1945: 77-82. F116.N638, v. 29
Mrs. Whaley, Mrs. Todd, and Mrs. Whetten, who brought aid to Americans imprisoned by the British.

McAlexander, Patricia J. The creation of the American Eve: the cultural dialogue on the nature and role of women in late eighteenth-century America. Early American literature, v. 9, winter 1975: 252-266. PS501.E2, v. 9
Examines liberal and conservative writings for arguments regarding proper female behavior.

Mead, Kate C. H. Early American women practitioners. In her A history of women in medicine from the earliest times to the beginning of the nineteenth century. Haddam, Conn., Haddam Press, 1938. p. 482-490. R692.M38
Includes bibliographic footnotes.

Moller, Herbert. Sex composition and correlated culture patterns of colonial America. William and Mary quarterly, 3d ser., v. 2, Apr. 1945: 113-153. F221.W71, 3d s., v. 2
The surplus of males was a factor that helped create the distinct character of American society.

Oldham, Ellen M. Early women printers of America. In Boston. Public Library. Quarterly, v. 10, Jan.-July 1958: 6-26, 78-92, 141-153. Z881.B7535, v. 10
Reprinted in Lives To Remember (New York, Arno Press, 1974. HQ1412.S74) compiled by Leon Stein.

Parker, Mrs. Alton B. The mothers of New York. In New York State Historical Association. History of the State of New York. v. 4. The new state. New York, Columbia University Press, 1934. p. [283]-319. illus. F119.N65, v. 4
Bibliography: p. 318-319.

Parker, Amelia C. Baroness Riedesel and other women in Burgoyne's army; heroines on the wrong side. In New York State Historical Association. Quarterly journal, v. 9, Apr. 1928: 109-118. F116.N863, v. 9

Smith, Page. Daughters of the promised land; women in American history. Boston, Little, Brown [1970] x, 392 p. HQ1410.S6
Includes bibliographic references.
Suggests that women in the colonial period were more likely to be regarded as persons of worth, intelligence, and responsibility than were their 19th-century counterparts.

Somerville, James K. The Salem (Mass.) woman in the home, 1660-1770. Eighteenth-century life, v. 1, Sept. 1974: 11-14. HN1.E42, v. 1
Observes changes in the matriarchal role and the condition of daughters by examining wills written over a hundred-year period.

Somerville, Mollie D. Women and the American Revolution. [Washington] National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, 1974. 67 p. illus. E206.S76
Includes bibliographic references.
Sketches of Mary Ludwig Hays McCauley, Margaret Cochran Corbin, Penelope Pagett Barker, Sybil Ludington, Deborah Sampson Gannett, Hannah White Arnett, Faith Robinson Trumbull, Nancy Morgan Hart, Esther De Berdt Reed, Sarah Franklin Bache, Hannah Hunter Hendee, and Lydia Barrington Darragh.

Spruill, Julia C. Southern housewives before the Revolution. North Carolina historical review, v. 13, Jan. 1936: 25-46. F251.N892, v. 28

Spruill, Julia C. Women's life and work in the southern colonies. Chapel Hill, University of North Carolina Press, 1938. 426 p. facsims., plates. HQ1416.S65

Bibliography: p. 367-394.

Van Devanter, Ann C. The signers' ladies. Antiques, v. 108, July 1975: 114-122. ports. (part col.) NK1125.A3, v. 108

Bibliographic references included in "Notes" (p. 122).

Williams, Selma R. Demeter's daughters; the women who founded America, 1587-1787. New York, Atheneum, 1976 [c1975] 359 p. facsims., plates, ports. HQ1416.W54

Bibliography: p. 332-345.

"Revolution": p. 225-290.

Wilson, Joan H. Dancing dogs of the colonial period: women scientists. Early American literature, v. 7, winter 1973: 225-235. [PS501.E2, v. 7]

Those curiosities, women who pursued scientific studies, tended to work in botany, horticulture, and medicine, fields related to the healing arts and practical "housewifery."

This issue not presently available at LC.

Woody, Thomas. A history of women's education in the United States. New York, Science Press, 1929. 2 v. illus., facsims., plates, ports. (Science and education, v. 4, book 1-2) LC1752.W6

Bibliography: v. 2, p. 481-589.

Material on the Revolutionary period is scattered throughout v. 1.

ISSN 0041-7904 Key title: Library of Congress information bulletin